

Behold By What a Wondrous Art

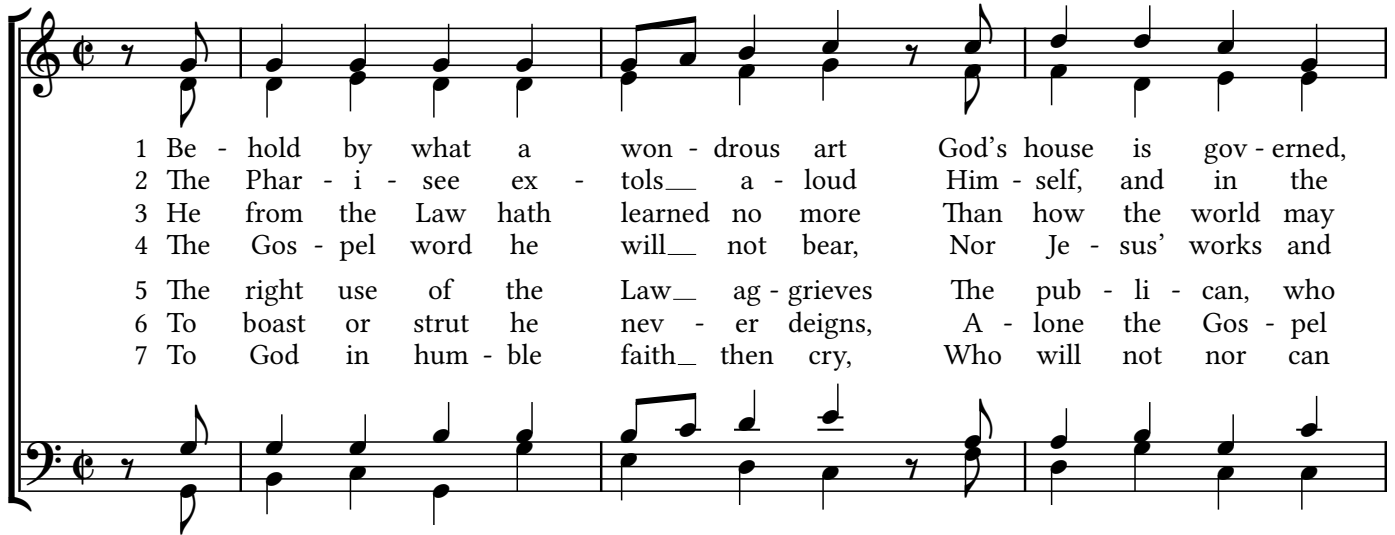

Sieh das Wunder-Regiment

Musæ Sioniaë, vol. 7 (1609), no. 6

Ludwig Helmbold, Schöne geistliche lieder (1615), tr. © 2025 Matthew Carver, alt.

Michael Praetorius (1571–1621)

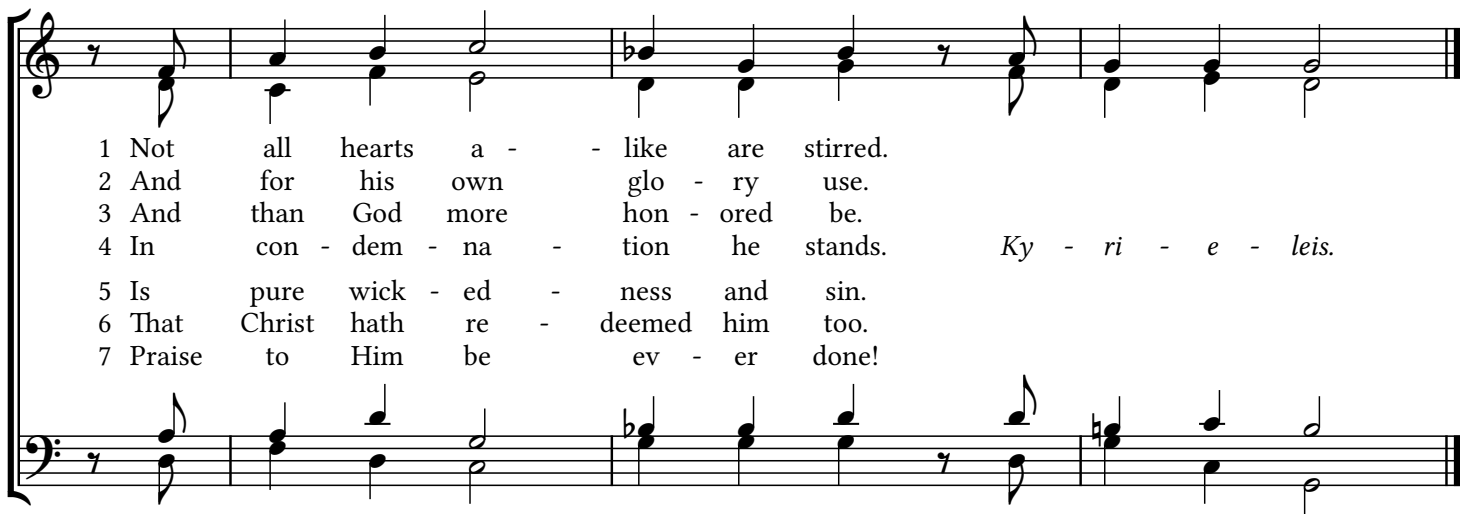

ed. Jonathan Wessler

1 Be - hold by what a won - drous art God's house is gov - erned,
2 The Phar - i - see ex - tols__ a - loud Him - self, and in the 3 He from the Law hath learned no more Than how the world may 4 The Gos - pel word he will__ not bear, Nor Je - sus' works and 5 The right use of the Law__ ag - grieves The pub - li - can, who
6 To boast or strut he nev - er deigns, A - lone the Gos - pel
7 To God in hum - ble faith__ then cry, Who will not nor can

1 which doth part The flock that hears God's Ho - ly Word;
2 Law is proud; The Ten Com - mand - ments doth a - buse
3 him a - dore, And how he may live hand - some - ly,
4 teach - ings fair; From such a - buse of God's com - mands
5 thus per - ceives That all he is with - out, with - in,
6 cry re - mains His heart's de - light and com - fort true:
7 us de - ny The right - eous - ness of Christ His Son,

1 Not all hearts a - - like are stirred.
2 And for his own glo - ry use.
3 And than God more hon - ored be.
4 In con - dem - na - tion he stands. Ky - ri - e - leis.
5 Is pure wick - ed - ness and sin.
6 That Christ hath re - deemed him too.
7 Praise to Him be ev - er done!