

Joy and Triumph Everlasting

Genevan Psalter (1551), no. 42

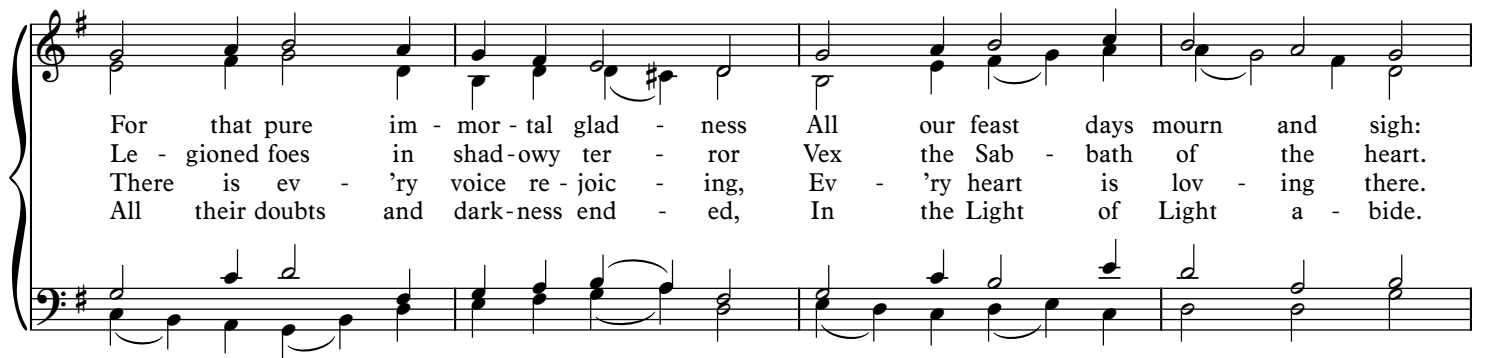

Adam of St. Victor (12th cent.), tr. Robert S. Bridges

Louis Bourgeois (c. 1510–1561)

ed. Jonathan Wessler

1 Joy and tri - umph ev - er - last - ing Hath the heav'n - ly Church on high;
2 Here the world's per - pet - ual war - fare Holds from Heav'n the soul a - part;
3 There the bod - y hath no tor - ment, There the mind is free from care,
4 There the seers and fa - thers ho - ly, There the proph - ets glo - ri - fied,

For that pure im - mor - tal glad - ness All our feast days mourn and sigh:
Le - gioned foes in shad - ovy ter - ror Vex the Sab - bath of the heart.
There is ev - 'ry voice re - joic - ing, Ev - 'ry heart is lov - ing there.
All their doubts and dark - ness end - ed, In the Light of Light a - bide.

Yet in death's dark de - sert wild Doth the moth - er aid her child;
O how hap - py that es - tate Where de - light doth not a - bate!
An - gels in that cit - y dwell; Them their King de - light - eth well:
There the saints, whose mem - 'ries old We in faith - ful hymns up - hold,

Guards ce - les - tial thence at - tend us, Stand in com - bat to de - fend us.
For that home the spir - it yearn - eth, Where none lan - guish - eth nor mourn - eth.
Still they joy and wea - ry nev - er, More and more de - sir - ing ev - er.
Have for - got their bit - ter sto - ry In the joy of Je - sus' glo - ry.